

International Workshop on Energy Policy in Asia Pacific Region to be Scheduled in October 2013

National Productivity Organization Pakistan, a non profit company working under ministry of Industries to cope with serious energy crisis which has badly affected our all economic sectors especially industrial sector, which is due to orthodox processes, inadequate use of electrical and mechanical equipments, un effective Energy Policy and non compliance to standard inspection techniques which has resulted higher energy losses, has established research and resource centre for Energy and Environment Management (CEEM) with the support of our mother body Asian Productivity Organization (APO) Tokyo-Japan having 20 member countries.

In continuation to these efforts NPO intends to organize an international "Workshop on Energy Policy in Asia Pacific region" with the collaboration of APO in which Energy Experts from 20 Asian Countries will participate, to highlight the best practices of Energy policies in the region and share the success stories, It will also focus for development of road map to review and up gradation of Energy policy in Pakistan. It will enable us to benchmark Pakistan's policy with other Asian countries under one roof.

To make it successful NPO invites expert suggestions from all stakeholders by the end of April 2013.
